

The existence of god?

Is god real? This is a question that people are asking all the time and the truth is no one really knows the answers. We all have our own opinions and we know which one we think is right. People could argue god does exist. William Paley taught us his beliefs that god is real and I think it's true. How could amazing things such as hearing seeing and the whole beauty of life just be made by chance. These things are so powerful and amazing, they can not just happen , they don't just come from no where. Someone or something must of made these things, and it must be god. God is the one we hear about all the time the bible tells us that god has made everything in this world so it must be true. Most people think of god as an amazing person who has created our whole world, there can be no other explanation to how things formed?

People could argue against this first argument by saying god does not exist. Charles Darwin is a good example of this. He told of his life and how he watched painful and terrible things happen. If god did create the world why would he want to destroy the things in it. God did not create the world or anything in it the theory from this is the big bang. The big bang was a massive ball of stuff made up of meteorite stars and planets. It was all compressed together until suddenly it exploded and this is what made our world. Also the explanation of day and night is that god is not making it happen it is the earth spinning on its axis which is causing day and night. This must show that god did not create anything, everything that is in our world was just something that happened it was not planned it just happened by chance. Also if god was real then why does he cause wars poverty and death.

I believe that god is real. God is not the one causing upset poverty and war's, it is people selfishness and greediness all over the world. If people stopped to think about other people then the world would be a much better place and people would stop thinking of god as a cruel person. The explanation for death is simple. God does not cause it because it is just something that happens. If people die through stabbings or through diseases then it is not there fault. God believed that it was there time to leave the earth and it was there time to go up to him in heaven.

We have to suffer sometimes because it makes us stronger, if we lived through lives just being happy we wouldn't know any difference and we wouldn't understand the true meaning of life. Life is full of so many things and included in that is happiness and suffering. Day and night is not caused by god and I agree with this because we have scientific proof however the big bang must have been caused by god because although the earth was made by the big ball of stuff, where did the big ball of stuff come from? It must have been god. God is real and he is a designer of our world, without god there is no life.
