

Discipleship & Me

My Speech

I think I have good leadership skills, because I can work well in groups. I like working together with other people and helping them to solve problems.

When we are put into working groups, I can help decide what we need to do, and how we are meant to do it, therefore making it easier for everyone else.

This quality helps the world become a better place because everyone will know what to do in certain situations and having good leadership skills helps people in their jobs as well, because they may be a person of authority like a teacher or Member of Parliament, where they need good leadership skills to benefit other people.

Leadership is similar to the qualities of the disciples, because even though Jesus was their leader, there were other disciples who helped to look after others and helped Jesus.

My attitude may affect other people because; they may think I am being bossy or that I am interfering (although I try not to be). In the time of the disciples, there may have been one or two disciples that were mainly in charge, other disciples may have thought this was unfair.

I think I got most of my qualities from both my parents and my understanding of right and wrong, because my parents tell me to help others, but I also know when people may not need help. I choose to act in this way because of what my parents tell me to do, and because I want to.
