

'I like having the freedom for us as a class to choose what we talk about. It is good because we can expand our thinking and ask lots of questions about other things, not just a specific topic.'